

Defense Lawyer 'Throws Surprise Into Smith Trial

New Figure Brought Into Mahwah Case

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 15 (AP)—A defense lawyer surprised Edgar Smith's murder trial today by claiming young Victoria Zielinski was last seen, injured and bleeding, with a boy friend shortly before her battered body was found in a secluded Mahwah gravel pit.

John E. Selser, attorney for the ex-Marine, said Smith, 23, last saw Victoria, 15, standing in the pit with Donald Hommel, 21, of Ramsey, the night of March 4. The next day her father found her half-nude body crumpled near several blood-stained rocks.

The father and mother both took the stand today. The father, Anthony Zielinski, described a sleepless night he spent when Victoria failed to return home that fatal night from a visit to a friend.

Riding

He told of riding up and down streets of his community searching for his daughter, and then of his horrified discovery of her body in the gravel pit the next morning.

Mrs. Zielinski broke down three times on the stand as she too told of seeing the body in the gravel pit and as she answered questions about clothing her daughter had been wearing.

Bergen County Judge Arthur J. O'Dea called a recess three times so Mrs. Zielinski could recover her composure.

In his opening statement to the jury, Selser said Smith had picked up Victoria when she hailed him as she was walking home from the house of a friend, Barbara Nixon.

They drove to the gravel pit to avoid Victoria's sister, Myrna, 13, who was to meet her older sister and escort her home from the Nixon's, Selser said.

Myrna, called as the first witness for the state, testified she had seen Hommel driving his green car in the area about the time she was to meet her sister. At the pit, Victoria suddenly told Smith his wife was "running around with another man," Selser claimed. When Smith slapped her she ran from the car.

Another Car

Just then, another car pulled up. Selser quoted Smith. He heard a scuffle and then Victoria returned with Hommel, Selser said.

Her head was bleeding and a handful of her hair had been torn out, Selser said. She told Smith she'd fallen, Selser went on.

As Smith was about to take her to a doctor, Hommel pulled her from the car and said he'd take her himself, the lawyer added. Then Smith drove off.

Bergen County Prosecutor Guy W. Callissi, attorney for the state, claimed that Smith alone had committed the murder and demanded the death penalty in his opening statement.

Ten Bridges Reach End Of Toll Reign

HARRISBURG, May 15 (AP)—Ten toll bridges in Pennsylvania were freed today with placing of a symbolic nickel in the right hand of Gov. Leader. It ended a 32-year campaign to remove the toll. Within minutes new signs were uncovered at the toll booths. They read "Free bridge, no tolls, May 15, 1957."

Gov. Leader stepped into the place of John R. Weibley, a veteran collector of 18 years in the Harrisburg Market Street bridge, to accept the official "final" toll. It was paid by a surprised R. B. Rhone, furniture repairman, headed from his Harrisburg home to a job in nearby Lemoyne.

Just One "Not two nickels, just one. I don't want anyone to think I'm chiseling," Leader said.

Ceremonies climaxing the 32-year campaign to rid the bridges of tolls were held at most of the spans. But Leader's appearance at the oldest of the 10 bought by the state for $4 million dollars.

It had been a toll structure since it was built in 1812. The other bridges are located at Walnut Street, Harrisburg; Clark's Ferry, Bethlehem (2), Allentown, Point Marion, Sunbury, Charleroi and Ellwood City.

Temperatures To Drop

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—It's been a warm spring but the Weather Bureau predicted today that temperatures will be cooler than normal over most of the nation during the next 30 days. And it'll probably be wetter than usual in most areas.

Test Postponed

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nevada, May 15 (AP)—Apprehension that wind and clouds would sweep radioactive fall-out into populated areas caused postponement of tomorrow's scheduled atomic test explosion.

Ike Challenges Budget-Cutters

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—President Eisenhower challenged congressional budget-cutters today to show him how they can slash his defense program without trifling with the nation's safety.

The President also defended anew his $71,800,000,000 budget by telling a news conference that government in 1957 must "study carefully the needs of the people today, not of 1860."

Eisenhower's comments came on the heels of a radio-TV address last night in which he said the "stupendous" sums now being spent cannot be cut substantially so long as the free world remains threatened by communism.

Under newsmen's questioning he hit hard on that same theme today—while brushing aside suggestions from some members of his own Republican party in Congress that he has moved to the left politically since his election in 1952.

"If anything," Eisenhower said, "I think I have become more conservative."

Determination
He went on to say he has a basic determination to preserve the value of the dollar and to resist "trifling with our financial integrity."

A House Military Affairs subcommittee is reported thinking in terms of a 2½ billion dollar slash in his defense proposals.

The onetime Supreme Allied commander in Europe said crisply: "I want to see how it is done. If we are going to trifle with this defense on that basis, now we are going to be in trouble somewhere along the line. If it is possible to do anything like this, then I am going to be educated again, that's all, because I don't see how they can do it."

Eisenhower's manner was sometimes relaxed, sometimes earnest, as he dealt with questions from more than 200 newsmen on an uncomfortably warm day.

Apart from his troubles in getting his 1957-58 budget, or most of it, through Congress, the President said: 1. He thinks the Russians show signs of meaning business in current disarmament talks "because they, as well as the rest of us, are feeling the pinch of building, supporting, maintaining these tremendous military organizations." But he said the West must hope, rather than expect, that real agreement can be reached.

2. He doesn't see any basis for claims that he has been "particularly close" to any labor leader including Dave Beck, the Teamsters' Union head who supported him in 1952 and 1956. Eisenhower said he's willing to leave Beck in the hands of the Senate committee which has been investigating the Teamster boss' activities.

3. He doesn't think his civil rights program, which is undergoing rough weather in Congress, will "in the long run" hurt GOP chances of gaining congressional seats in the South. Eisenhower described his program as "very moderate."

Appropriation
The appropriation is necessary for financing state functions—isn't expected to pass the Legislature until after the new biennium begins.

Rep. Johnson, House Republican floor leader, said a Senate decision to adjourn finally June 15 threw off the House timetable for introduction of the billion dollar plus general appropriation measure.

Instead of coming in tomorrow, Johnson said, introduction will be made next Wednesday.

As now written, it calls for 100 million dollars in cuts from budget request and fits into a GOP plan to keep over-all appropriations at 420 million dollars.

Gov. Leader had asked for 1½ billion dollars in appropriations plus another 100 millions outside the budget.

International Affairs—The Senate defeated 1920 legislation which would have led to abolishing the office of secretary of internal affairs.

The measure was in the form of a constitutional amendment since the office is set up under State Constitution.

Award Named For Magsaysay

MANILA, May 15 (AP)—A Ramon Magsaysay award has been established by the Rockefeller brothers fund to perpetuate the ideals of the late President of the Philippines.

Five annual prizes of $10,000 each will go to Filipinos who "exemplify the greatness of spirit, integrity and devotion to freedom of Ramon Magsaysay," said a statement from John D. Rockefeller III.

18,000 Jam Garden To Hear Graham

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—A tide of humanity 18,000 strong turned out tonight as Billy Graham launched his crusade for "a spiritual revolution" in New York City.

To a near-capacity crowd in Madison Square Garden, Graham said the crusade could be "the beginning of a spiritual fire that will sweep this nation and ignite the world."

Stirring hymns from a choir of 1,500 reverberated through the huge bunting-draped arena as the service began.

A big blue and white banner hung above the platform saying: "Jesus said 'I am the way, the truth and the life.'"

Preliminary
Graham, in brief preliminary remarks, said he felt "New York is going to have a spiritual resurrection" and the crusade would spur "a spiritual revolution."

"We need a spiritual revolution in America," he said. "And the place where it could begin is New York City."

He said the concentrated prayers of millions, with a scope probably never equaled by any other event in history, have appealed to God to "give new heart and new soul to this city that leads the world in so many ways."

Graham said there had been some strange ideas voiced as to his motives in the New York crusade.

"Some have said I want to keep the Republicans in power," he said. "Others have said I want to clean up New York. Still others have said I want to make Baptists out of everybody."

"I have come to New York for the express purpose of winning men and women to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ."

When Graham said he believed the "Lord has many people in this city that need a personal relation with Jesus Christ," there were scattered "Amen's" from some of the audience.

The crusade is the most widely heralded religious revival since the Billy Sunday era of 40 years ago.

Polish Leader Makes Appeal
WARSAW, May 15 (AP)—Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka appealed for unity in the face of economic woes in a six-hour speech today to the Polish party Central Committee.

There were signs that Gomulka and his closest associates were preparing a stronger line against the Stalinist Old Guard.

Thunderstorms Felt In East, Snow Falls To Depth Of Six Inches In Colorado Passes

By The Associated Press
THUNDERSTORMS rumbled again Wednesday in widely separated sections of the nation.

While a cool front pushed down from Canada, thundershowers developed in warm and muggy areas in the East.

Showers and thunderstorms were reported in Florida in the southeast and in eastern Texas.

Rain fell in the Rockies and a few showers sprinkled parts of the Pacific Northwest.

With temperatures in the 30s snow fell at high areas in Utah, Wyoming and Colorado.

Snowfalls of four to six inches made roads dangerous in Colorado mountain passes. Heavy snows were reported on Berthoud and Loveland Passes. Blizzard conditions struck Vail Pass.

Senate Passes Legislation On Government

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The Senate brushed aside President Eisenhower's appeal for support of his budget tonight and passed a State and Justice Departments money bill slashed $102,564,000 under his request.

It stripped the U.S. Information Agency's budget request of 144 million dollars down to $90,200,000. It also recommended USIA be put back in the State Department, and that the agency end any overseas activities competing with private American agencies.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, dominated the debate, which followed the President's nationwide radio-TV speech last night urging action against big cuts, which he said might endanger security. In this connection, Eisenhower mentioned the importance of overseas information programs.

Only One
Only one Democrat, Sen. Neuberger, of Oregon, voted against the USIA cut, which was approved on a 61-15 roll call.

The Republicans were sharply divided. Fourteen voted with the President against the cut. Twenty-three of them voted for it—including Senate Republican Leader Knowland, Calif.; Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee; Sen. Dirksen of Illinois, assistant GOP leader; and Sen. Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the conference of all Senate Republicans.

The big fight was over the USIA appropriation. After that was decided the appropriation bill was passed on a vote of 77-0.

The bill now must go back to the House for consideration of the Senate changes. The differences probably will have to be worked out in a Senate-House Conference Committee.

The Senate adopted an amendment, recommended by its Appropriations Committee, giving USIA $90,200,000 to operate the Voice of America and other overseas information programs in the fiscal year starting July 1.

This was $15,900,000 less than the House allocated earlier, and $33,800,000 less than the President had requested.

The amendment was part of a $563,085,293 money bill to finance the State and Justice departments and USIA.

Johnson led the fight for the reduction. He said there was "not a scintilla of evidence" that even 90 million dollars could be "wisely spent" by USIA.

A group of Republicans, including Sens. Thye of Minnesota, Cooper of Kentucky, Javits of New York, Bush of Connecticut, and Clifford Case of New Jersey protested in vain that it was a dangerous step at a time when Soviet Russia is increasing its propaganda barrage.

Carrier Rams Ocean Object
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 15 (AP)—The USS Franklin D. Roosevelt, 51,000-ton aircraft carrier, struck a submerged object off the Florida coast today and its commander reported an oil slick was observed in the water after the collision.

Capt. T. W. Hopkins discounted a theory that the mighty warship which draws 35 or more feet of water struck a submarine.

But he said "All I know is that we weren't leaking any oil."

"It could have been a whale," he said, adding that the impact was felt aboard the ship.

The Roosevelt immediately returned to its home base at nearby Mayport to have the damage surveyed.

Interest
The return of Fine to Luzerne County's political arena has raised some statewide interest, particularly among Republican leaders who blamed the former governor for enabling the Democrats, led by George Leader, to return to the executive mansion at Harrisburg for the first time in 20 years.

Fine is seeking to win back the county judgeship he held before he rose to the Superior Court and then to governor. There are four candidates for the three Republican nominations.

Twenty-three Pennsylvania cities nominate candidates for mayor with the Democratic incumbents in Pittsburgh and Scranton trying for an unprecedented fourth term.

Pittsburgh's chief executive is David Lawrence, the state's Democratic national committeeman, while Scranton's mayor, James T. Hanlon, recently figured in testimony of the Senate Rackets Committee.

Beck Linked In Real Estate Deal

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—A story of how Dave Beck and a pal tried to take the Teamsters Union for $71,500 in a real estate deal—and then collected $12,000 from the Teamsters for having failed—was unfolded today before Senate rackets probes.

Raymond H. Fields testified that Nathan Shefferman, whom he described as a representative of Teamsters President Beck, approached him with a proposition to buy land for the union's glittering headquarters here for $15 a square foot and resell it to the Teamsters for $18.

Reward
When Shefferman's proposition fell through, other witnesses testified, the union bought the land directly for $15 a square foot and praised Shefferman on the grounds that he had beaten the price down from $18.

The Senate committee was told that Shefferman was rewarded with a $12,000 commission—and that a month later Shefferman paid Beck $8,000.

The portly Teamsters boss is scheduled to appear before the senators tomorrow afternoon to explain things. But he is not likely to talk, having invoked the Fifth Amendment 150 times previously on grounds that his answers might tend to incriminate him.

Earlier in today's hearing, a Seattle insurance broker who once shared a racing stable with a high official of the Teamsters Union acknowledged he had made "tremendous" profits out of Teamsters' insurance.

The Senate Rackets Investigation Committee put his net profit at more than a million dollars during the last four years, and George Newell, the broker, did not question the figure.

But Newell denied a contention of Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) that the profits were "excessive."

"I think they were all out of line," the senator insisted. "At the same time you were in a partnership in a racing stable with Frank Brewster and Brewster was responsible for getting you the account."

Head
Brewster is head of the 11-state Western Conference of Teamsters. Newell contended Brewster was not entirely responsible for his having the Teamsters' business, although conceding that Brewster, with the approval of a policy committee, could "cut off my business tomorrow."

The Senate investigators also heard testimony today that Dave Beck, president of the Teamsters, did not list loans of more than $300,000 from his union in a 1951 financial statement.

A. M. Burke, a vice president of the Occidental Life Insurance Co., Los Angeles, told the Senate committee he got the financial statement from Beck in connection with a $273,000 personal loan to the Teamsters boss, and that it made no mention of any money owed the union.

"It would therefore appear," said Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel for the committee, "that the money was stolen rather than borrowed."

France Levels Charge Of Desertion At Both Britain, United States Over Suez

PARIS, May 15 (AP)—Premier Guy Mollet said tonight he felt France had been deserted by the United States and Britain on the Suez issue. He attempted to resign after 16 months in office, a post-war record in France.

Persuaded by President Rene Coty to stay in office, the Premier held a stormy session to ask the U.N. Security Council as soon as possible to order Egypt to observe the six principles it approved last October for safeguarding free passage to all nations through the Suez Canal.

Mollet indicated he felt he should resign because his leadership had isolated France on a vital issue.

Newsmen
In a statement to newsmen, the Premier indicated he felt most keenly the decision by Britain—France's partner in the ill-starred Suez invasion last fall—to bow to Egyptian President Nasser's terms for operation of the canal.

The British government has authorized British-flag ships to use the canal again, paying tolls in sterling to Egypt and without protest. Other members of the Suez Canal Users Assn. also have knuckled under, removing the official discouragements from shipowners' use of the canal but paying under protest. France alone has stuck to her boycott of the waterway.

Bitterly, Mollet said in his statement that the decision by the others to accept Nasser's conditions without any minimum guarantee on the right of passage or commitment by Egypt on the division of tolls was "a flagrant contradiction" of the six principles of last October.

He said these principles had been specifically upheld by U.S. Secretary of State Dulles and British officials. Mollet implied Britain and the United States were backing down on their word.

Mollet's dramatic gesture came as Israel apparently was preparing to send a "test ship" to the Suez Canal to seek passage through the waterway.

Mother, Three Children Perish
SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 15 (AP)—A laboratory technician found his wife and three young children stabbed to death Wednesday, and Coroner Edward S. Shelley said the woman had killed the children and herself.

Police found three bloody butcher knives in the fashionable ranch house, one of them protruding from the chest of Mrs. Helen J. Conley, 33.

Mental Health Group Urges Support Of Leader's Program

Action Taken After Warning By Official

MONROE County Mental Health Assn. steering committee last night strongly urged State legislators to back Gov. Leader's request for a $176 million appropriation for mental health.

This action was taken after a warning from Robert Oliver, State Mental Health Assn. representative, that the legislature has threatened to cut appropriations—especially mental health—in the Governor's proposed budget.

Oliver warned that cuts in the mental health budget would mean "a return to custodial care in institutions rather than treatment of patients." He said that the State's program for mental health will be "set back a decade or more" by appropriations slashes.

Members of the steering committee responded by authorizing Mrs. Arthur Henning, organizing chairman, to write letters to Rep. Hanford Cleveland, Monroe County representative and Sen. William Z. Scott, urging their support of the full $221 million asked by Gov. Leader. Of that total $176 million is earmarked for mental health and the remainder is for child care and other State-financed services within the health department.

Main Speaker
Oliver was the main speaker at the preliminary meeting last night in Stroud Community House. The committee is charged with the responsibility of setting up a full-scale Mental Health Association for Monroe County.

In informal remarks to committee members, Oliver pointed out that enormous strides have been made recently in the field of mental health care in Pennsylvania. The main objection to slashing the appropriation he said is that it "does not permit growth and does not allow for the inflationary element in financing."

Major outgrowth of last night's meeting, in addition to the resolution urging support of the Governor's request, was the appointment of two sub-committees. They will draw up by-laws and help to create the board of directors for the association.

Mrs. James Cummings will act as chairman of the by-laws committee. Serving with her will be Edward Williams, Mrs. Merle Stevenson, George Rung, Mrs. James Gillilan, Mrs. Lawrence Musselman and Mrs. Martin Ellsweig.

Nominating
Roger A. Dunning will head the nominating committee. Members will be: Mrs. Claude Leister, Mrs. Bernice All, Mrs. Harold Pond, Dr. Charlotte Jordan, Rev. Robert Galligan and Rev. Luther Markin.

Mrs. Cummings said that her committee will be ready to make its report on June 5. Members discussed embarking on a program which will include a county-wide study to determine the need for a Mental Health Association as its first item of business.

Oliver endorsed this procedure, pointing out that "in the creation of an organization of this kind, fact-finding comes first."

Major goal of the organization will be the education of the public to the need for treatment of mental illness. In the process it will attempt, also, to enlighten public opinion on mental illness as a disease within the community which, like other diseases of a physical or organic nature, can now be treated and cured.

Members of the steering committee are the following: Mrs. All, Miss Helen Brown, Mrs. Cummings, Dunning, Mrs. Ellsweig, Mrs. Arnold Flagler, Fr. Galligan, Mrs. Gillilan, Mrs. Henning, Dr. Jordan, Mrs. Thomas Larkin, Mrs. Leister, Dr. M. J. Leitner, Rev. Markin, Mrs. Leon Meyung, Mrs. Karlene Muddell, Mrs. Musselman, Miss Elizabeth Martin, Mrs. Pond, Rung, Mrs. Perry Stearns, Mrs. Stevenson and Williams.

Spark From Battery Cause For Fire

A SPARK from a battery is thought to be the cause of a small gasoline fire which Stroudsburg volunteers extinguished with the use of chemicals yesterday morning.

Firemen answered an alarm at 7:10 a.m. and found a fire in the back of a truck at 10th and Sarah Sts.

The spark ignited a small can of gasoline, but did not set off a drum of gasoline which was nearby.

Heinsohn To Head Board Second Year

PORTLAND — Fred Heinsohn, president of the Community Board of Trade for the last year, has been returned to office for another term.

Also elected at the annual meeting held recently at Fireside Inn, Blairstown, N.J., were the following:

Vice Presidents
Virgil Vannatta, first vice president; Betty Sweitzer, second vice president; Lillian MacNamee, secretary; Joseph Varrin, assistant, and John J. Lervis, treasurer.

Frank McNamara, Michael Nittle, Val Hochrein, Andrie Pillond and Catherine Dolsen were elected to the board of directors for two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Heinsohn expect to attend the Chamber of Commerce Executives convention in Erie on June 20-22.

The board voted a $25 donation to the American Cancer Society.

Lackawanna Figures In Rail Plan

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—An Interstate Commerce Commission examiner today recommended that a reorganization proceeding for the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Railroad be concluded by putting it under control of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Co.

The Wyoming Valley operates a 19-mile freight line between Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., connecting with the Lackawanna at Scranton.

Ownership
The Lackawanna now owns about 76 percent of Wyoming Valley's outstanding first mortgage bonds.

The examiner John L. Bradford, proposed that the reorganized Wyoming Valley Co. be capitalized at $1,550,000 covering $975,000 of new general-mortgage 4 percent 50-year income bonds and $575,000 par value capital stock, with the Lackawanna receiving 76 percent of both the new bonds and the new capital stock in exchange for its present holdings. The examiner proposed that ICC find that Wyoming Valley's outstanding 6 percent debentures and its present preferred and common stock are without value and ineligible to participate in the new company.

United States Prods Russia To Lift 'Veil'

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The United States prodded Russia again today to lift the veil of secrecy which bars 30 per cent of the Soviet Union from travel by foreigners.

The gesture was made in a formal note of protest handed the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow by the U.S. Embassy there. The note complained that "road blocks and other forms of police action" interfered with travel by American in areas officially stamped as open by the Soviet government.

Since last July 1, the U.S. note said, American officials in Russia have been blocked in open zones on more than 36 occasions.

The note said this was done by declaring open areas temporarily closed, by denying travel facilities or restricting auto travel to a particular route, or by other means. About 400 Russians live in the United States.

Kitten Returns Home After Trip Requiring 12 Days

By Bill Berry
DELAWARE WATER GAP—An anguished meowing brought Mrs. Hermann Snyder to the door one night in the recent past. A dirty and tired cat stumbled in as if to say, "Where's it good to be home."

A washing revealed that it was, in fact, home. It appeared that it was one of four kittens to which the Snyder's mother cat had given birth immediately before Easter. A call to the aunt in Bangor at whose house the four kittens had been deposited revealed that one was missing.

At first, after the kittens had been born, the family had decided to keep them; but, alas, facts proved that five cats were too many for one family, and they were given to the aunt on Easter Sunday.

But one kitten decided that she preferred the Snyder's residence to that of the aunt. And home she is to stay—unless the remaining trio decide to remake the quartette.

The trip required 12 days.

Ike Appoints Investigators

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—President Eisenhower today appointed three members of an advisory board created to investigate a dispute between Ohio dock firms and members of the United Mine Workers Union.

Eisenhower set up the board May 9 in a move to avert a strike in a dispute over wages and work regulations. Named to the board today were Nathan Clayton of Washington, D. C., retired chief judge of Washington's Municipal Court of Appeals; Dudley E. Whiting of Detroit, an attorney and labor arbitrator; and Prof. Morrison Handsacker of Easton, Pa., head of Lafayette College's economics department and a labor arbitrator.

The dispute is between District 50 members of the mine workers union, on the one hand, and the Toledo, Lorain & Fairport Dock Co., the Toledo Lakefront Dock Co., and the Cleveland Stevedore Dock Co.

Proposal Back To Committee

HARRISBURG, May 15 (AP)—The House today returned to the Fisheries Committee a proposal to boost the state's $2.50 fish license fee to $4.

Rep. Stoner (R-Cumberland), chairman of the committee, said the GOP caucus had reviewed the general increase plan and had rejected it in its present form.

"There just aren't the votes there for that bill," he declared. "We'll work over it again."

Four Anniversaries Marked By Church

When four anniversaries fall in the same week, there is reason for real rejoicing and celebration.

Such is the case this week in Stroudsburg, where the four dates are being observed by members of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Their congregation was founded 90 years ago in the old Court House, then located in the "Square" opposite the present Court House on Monroe St. The 12 male members who signed the organization papers and their families worshipped in the county building for more than a year, then built their own church at the present location on Ninth St.

Not without its ups and downs in the intervening 90 years, the congregation nevertheless has grown steadily and is now one of the largest in the community. Numbered among its members have been some of the area's leading citizens down through the years; it has given an above-average number of sons to the ministry, and its service to the community has been outstanding.

Paralleling the church's 90th anniversary observance are three other dates which call for special celebration.

Yesterday marked the 50th anniversary of the founding of St. John's Brotherhood, itself a bulwark within the congregation. The date was celebrated at a banquet last night.

Then, on Sunday, special services will be conducted in honor of two anniversaries being observed by Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlsein—his 30th as pastor of St. John's and the 44th of his ordination.

We join with the entire community in extending congratulations to St. John's Church on its joyous observance and wish it many more years of continued service to God, to country and to all those who come in contact with its good works.

Mental Health, Politics Won't Mix

A charge that the General Assembly is approaching the problem of mental health services on a partisan political basis, with little regard for the needs of the mentally ill, was heard in Philadelphia this week.

Directors of Pennsylvania Mental Health, Inc., leveled the blast at their quarterly meeting. They expressed alarm at the apparent trend in the Legislature with respect to the Commonwealth's mental health program.

In documenting its charge, the organization cited three specific examples.

It is the House Appropriation Committee's "stated intention," the board said, to reduce funds below the "rock bottom figure" requested, a move that "would set mental health program back a decade in Pennsylvania."

The committee also intends to specify the amount of money that can be spent for each budget item, "thereby defeating the main purpose of sound planning on a statewide basis, which calls for a flexible method of meeting changing needs," the board declared.

The third example cited is the introduction of a series of measures "designed to cripple the training program of the Health Department" and change the administrative structure back to "the archaic system of disjointed administrative boards of hospital trustees, with no central professional direction."

In conclusion, the board said "Failure of the Legislature to provide the minimum needed funds will reverse the progress made in the past two years, and instead of a steady increase in the numbers of patients leaving our state hospitals, we may see a movement in the opposite direction."

Pennsylvania, like other states, has an obligation to provide the mentally ill with early treatment and the opportunity to recover and return to their home. We are chagrined to hear inferences that partisanship bears any weight whatsoever in dealing with a problem so vital as mental health.

Honest differences of opinion will occur in any major discussion. We hope, therefore, that this whole ruckus is only a misunderstanding on someone's part which can be cleared up to the benefit of everybody concerned.

George Sokolsky Says...

General Denial Is Retreat From Life Rather Than A Statement Of Real Fact

Howard Fast used to be a Communist and he wrote books. He was regarded as one of the brightest among Communist writers and won one of those Stalin Prizes which is a disgrace for any American to receive.

So, in due course, Howard Fast quit the Communist Party which upset them very much. But what upset them more was that instead of announcing his departure in the "Daily Worker," he gave an interview to the bourgeois "New York Times." Then the Communist monthly, "Mainstream," printed an article by Howard Fast explaining why he quit the party which again upset the comrades who thought that the editor displayed bad judgment in giving such an article house room.

Fast explains how and why he became a Communist and it seems a long way around to reach a point, which having reached it, he, in the end, found it to be a fraud, which he should have recognized to be in the first place. This is what he says:

"Looking back at my life, I find two major forces that brought me to Communism. The first was a maturing belief in the goodness and inevitable brotherhood of man—a brotherhood in peace and common creativity. In this belief, I learned my equalitarianism out of the Prophetic teachings of Judaism, the love and brotherhood of man preached by Isaiah, and the morality, in terms of the poor and oppressed, of Jesus Christ. My democratic understanding was based on the writing of Jefferson and Lincoln.

"The second force was an understanding of the role of the working class in modern history. The working class I was born into, and I studied it well through the first 18 years of my life. I began to understand its historic role through the works of George Bernard Shaw, Jack London, Upton Sinclair and C. Osborne Ward.

"Later, in the process of self-education, I was able to read and understand the work of not only Marx and Engels, but of Mill and Veblen and Darwin and Morgan—and many other related Marxist and non-Marxist social thinkers."

This is not very unusual reading, although it is strictly off the top and shows up the flaws in self-education. In effect, Fast became what is roughly called a humanist, one who makes man the center of the universe and who rejects the supernatural.

However, now that Fast has outgrown Marx, he may, in time, and after considerable struggle, come around to God. Worse sinners have, in the past, hit the sawdust trail.

Howard Fast's intellectual and spiritual difficulties will be many. Of Stalin's tyranny, Fast says:

"... I was filled with loathing and disgust. I felt a sense of unmitigated mental nausea at the realization that I had supported and defended this murderous bloodbath, and I felt, as so many did then, a sense of being a victim of the most incredible swindle in modern times."

Many were filled with that sort of loathing and nausea while Stalin was still alive and was maintaining himself by chicanery and murder. Many were filled with that sort of loathing and nausea when they saw their President and Winston Churchill sit with this ogre and divvy up the spoils of war. They called themselves anti-Communists because the whole materialistic structure that Karl Marx created and Lenin applied seemed too horrible to believe.

The real difficulty with some men is that in 1957, they would like to have taken out of their lives the 1930's and perhaps even some of the 1940's. They would like to have forgotten that they were human beings before they became prosperous and Modern Republicans.

Perhaps that is what is wrong with Alger Hiss' book: He enters a general denial, but what was he doing in the 1930's when so much of the literate American youth were taking either a pro or con position on Marxism? Was he, at that time oblivious to the world about him or was he a Harvard playboy?

In a word, a general denial is not a statement of fact; it is a retreat from one's life. At any rate, Howard Fast meets the facts of his life; some of them are not too pleasant to ponder.

weird conduct. But nothing like that. Popper and mommer are responsible, together with the fact that the home is in a rundown locality, there are mice in the kitchen, the old folks can't afford two autos, the kids don't get rich cream with their cereal and (as any psychiatrist will tell them) they spoke too sharply to the off-spring in their early years.

This is an age of wars, hassles, violence, hypocrisy on influential levels, contempt for marriage as a sacrament, divorces while you wait, lax discipline in the public schools, degrading films, an arginal in every woodshed and a flood of books by ex-madams, alcoholic belles and noted show biz gals who parade confessions of adulteries, drunken binges and thefts. Our Senators make little if any comment on them, reserving their wallops for the mothers and fathers.

Planning Partnership? Learn The Rules First

By Anne Meywood
It's true that you can tell a great deal about people from living with them, but it's also true that you can learn a great deal more by working with them. Husband-and-wife teams who want to start businesses together had better not forget that.

"I would say my father and mother knew each other about as well as it's possible for two people to know each other," Mary T. writes. "They've been married for thirty-four years, and quite happily—or so it seemed."

Retirement Project
Then, a few years ago, they went into the restaurant business. It was supposed to be a retirement project for Father. Mother pitched in, partly because they couldn't afford to hire enough people, and partly because, with all of us married and on our own, she had time on her hands.

"But the venture hasn't worked out at all. That is, the restaurant is successful, but Mother and Father are at each other's throats half the time."

"We're all so worried about it. What can we do?"

Won't Take Advice
First of all, I doubt if the girl can do much, really. Parents are notoriously unwilling to take advice from their children.

But one thing is possible. If the restaurant is going successfully, perhaps her father could now afford to hire enough help so that her mother could get out of it for awhile.

Mary might urge her mother to come for a visit, which would at least give both her parents a breather. If it really is as bad as it sounds, perhaps Mother ought not to go back to the restaurant. She might look for another activity which would interest her and which she could do on her own.

Try and Stop Me

The hope of luring a share of the tourist money scattered about more or less lavishly has persuaded the elders of several villages to change their names. Who would think, for instance, of lingering in a hamlet named Dishwater Pond, New Hampshire? The name was changed, very wisely, to Mirror Lake.

Similarly, in the twinkling of a town council's editorial eye, Mosquito, Oregon, became Troutdale; and Pop, Ky., blossomed out as Chevrolet; and Mole Hill, West Virginia, was reborn as Mountain View.

"Beware of women doctors," warns Jerry Lewis. "One of them said my throat needed painting—but she couldn't decide on a color."

Warning note near Old Faithful Geyser in Yellowstone Park: "The only time it's really safe to pet a bear is when it is a rug."

Robert S. Allen Reports...

Senate Conducting Probes Of Huge Highway Program

Washington, May 15—There are at least five states involved in the Senate Public Works Subcommittee's investigation of "right-of-way boondoggling" under the multi-billion dollar super-highway program.

Also, this is only one of two such probes which are under way.

Another, as yet unannounced, is by a House Government Operations Subcommittee, headed by Rep. John Blatnik (D. Minn.). He and Senator Albert Gore (D. Tenn.), chairman of the Senate investigation, are dividing this scandal-charged field between them.

It can be reported that his list includes Indiana, which is Gore's opener, and Iowa and New Mexico.

Strikingly indicative of the potential explosiveness of these probes is the fact that the three states alone will receive more than $200,000,000 in federal highway funds during fiscal 1957 and 1958, as follows:

State	1957	1958
Indiana	$18,340,798	$61,683,050
Iowa	41,934,614	53,083,450
N. Mex.	25,079,124	31,575,683

The five states slated for probing are only the starters. Actually, the investigators are scrutinizing right-of-way purchases in all states participating in the 41,000-mile highway program voted by Congress last year.

Under this law, the government puts up 90 per cent of the cost of these new roads and the states 10 per cent.

This year federal expenditures for this purpose will exceed $1 billion. In 1958 they are expected to rise to $1,690,000,000. The special gasoline tax, it's estimated, will produce $2 billion annually. Already nearly $600,000,000 is in the trust fund set up under the program.

Inside Tips—The Senate and House investigators also are looking into certain activities of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Two matters particularly are under examination: (1) Sources of the leaks of secret information about routes and other plans; (2) the bureau's apparent failure to crack-down in known instances of advance land buying on the basis of inside word.

Federal Highway Administrator Bertram Tallamy has told the probes, in preliminary discussions, that "no federal funds were known to be involved" in these cases.

Senator Gore will air evidence that Indiana insiders bought land which they resold, within six months, for the highway program for ten times the amount they originally paid.

This profiteering is attributed to leaks from state and Washington sources.

It is also charged Indiana has received large amounts of federal funds despite failure to comply with the law dealing with right-of-way buying. Similar laxness is charged against the Public Roads Bureau in other states.

A detailed report on these matters has been demanded from the agency.

Senator Gore has a land buying case right in his own Committee.

A staff member and a partner were paid $22,500 for a roadway under the new program. They claim they bought the land in 1947, long before the federal plan was drafted.

Note: The vast road-building program, to cost $33 billion over a 13-year period, is running into a serious new problem—steadily rising costs. Already costs are 12 per cent above original estimates, and are continuing to go up.

Missile Sparks—The Air Force is running out of money for missile development. As of March 1, it has spent $833,000,000 of the $860,000,000 Congress voted for this purpose for the fiscal year ending June 30.

In contrast, the Army and Navy still had left large amounts of their missile funds; the Army had $176,000,000 unspent, and the Navy $181,000,000. The Air Force's heavy expenditures are due to the stockpiling of an intermediate range ballistic missile that is still not fully tested. . . . Private industry has invested more than $100,000,000 in production and other facilities for missile development.

That's the report of a special study by the staff and of the House Armed Services Committee. It shows the government's outlays for this purpose are approximately $3 billion. . . . Louis Nichols, veteran assistant of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, says, "There is a strong religious undertone among FBI agents. That is because they constantly come into contact with the stark realities of life, and encounter the failures of human beings that test the faith of mankind."

About one quarter of United States families which have an income of more than $7,500 have more than one car.

Poconos Take Bow In Magazine

By Jim Riley

The Pocono Mountains received another boost recently when an article on Lake Wallenpaupack appeared in the Ford Times, a Ford Motor Co. publication.

The article was written by Ruth B. Hagedorn and paintings accompanying the story are works of Ralph By.

The story is entitled "Your Lake in the Poconos."

Importance of the lake to visitors and natives alike is featured in the two-page article, which also displays two pages of art.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilcox, Duke Center, Pa., announce the recent birth of a son.

Mother, the former Dorothy Pine, Stroudsburg, and new arrival are doing well at the Olean General Hospital, Olean, N. Y.

Bill is a former member of the Stroudsburg High School faculty. He served as assistant football coach for one season.

Bill Pinsky, Portland's fire chief, is pulling out all stops in an effort to make next week's "Western Show" a success.

The entertainment is slated for the fire house on Thursday, May 23, at 8 p. m.

Farke Kunkle, well known area automobile dealer, is celebrating a birthday today.

Congratulations are certainly in order.

Charley Dieter, Snyder'sville, is now ready to take on all comers on the golf course.

He recently completed a purchase of some new golf balls, and claims his troubles are over.

M. N. Warner, Reiders, plans a flying trip to Charlotte, N. C. tomorrow.

He will visit with son Harry through Sunday. Harry plays first base for the Charlotte entry in the class "A" South Atlantic Baseball League.

Ruth Brown, efficient Daily Record employee, is celebrating a birthday today.

Best of wishes, and many more celebrations to a mighty hard worker.

Diplomas Presented In Police Course

DIPLOMAS were presented to 21 police course graduates—six of them unable to attend—last night at a dinner meeting in Stroudsburg Municipal Building.

Main speaker was Judge Fred Davis who discussed public relations as it applies to a policeman. Davis praised the men for successfully completing the police training course on their own time.

Other speakers were East Stroudsburg Burgess Jesse R. S. Flory and Arthur V. Jones, Scranton private detective agency owner who was instructor in the courses held for local police officers and members of the Police Reserve of Monroe County. Rev. Frank Wingerter gave the invocation.

The class presented a gift to Jones in appreciation of his time spent in teaching its membership. Ladies attending the dinner were the Police Reserve Auxiliary and wives of regular police officers.

A spaghetti supper was served prior to graduation exercises. This was the charter anniversary of the Police Reserve.

Subjects in the newly-completed course were general science, casting methods, scientific traps, public relations, fingerprint classification, identification of fragments, evidence gathered from weapons and the preservation of evidence.

Gold Star Mothers To Be Honored

POST 2540, Veterans of Foreign Wars will honor local Gold Star Mothers at a Memorial Service Sunday, May 26 at 3 p.m. at the post.

Commander Fred Feller Tuesday night issued an invitation to all Gold Star Mothers in the area to attend the service.

The ceremony is held each year to commemorate the loss of post members. It is dedicated to the sacrifices these men and others who have died before them have made for their country.

Disappointment
At Tuesday night's post meeting, Feller expressed disappointment at the turnout in membership. He expressed gratitude to those who did attend, however.

The commander commended members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW for their work during the year. The Auxiliary presented a national standard flag to the post.

Inspection Of Area Stores For Short-Weight Flour Packages Underway In Monroe County

AN INSPECTION of all chain and neighborhood stores in a crackdown on short-weight flour packages from national milling concerns began yesterday in this district.

John Schimmel, Analomink, State inspector of weights and measures, told The Daily Record last night that the drive to catch weight violations in packaged flour sales will continue about two weeks.

Schimmel said that repeated complaints have been received concerning flour packages. Preliminary inspections, he said, during the past four months have turned up several violations.

Cooperating with Schimmel in the Monroe County inspection will be Ralph Van Buskirk, local weights and measures official. Schimmel said the local activity is part of a "State-wide crackdown on package violations."

The inspector emphasized that "local managers of chain stores or small grocery stores are not to be held accountable for the violations." Responsibility rests with the supplier, the national distributors and the mills, Schimmel said.

In announcing the crackdown Schimmel cautioned customers to request store proprietors to re-weigh flour packages "if they are in doubt" about proper weight. "Don't accept the package if it is underweight," Schimmel warned buyers.

The inspector said that no "trouble" is anticipated with local merchants but that "we will advise them to take short-weight packages from the shelves and contact the branch or home office of the responsible firm."

Two Lehigh Valley inspectors reported yesterday that they had made 75 investigations since January and "nine out of every 10 showed short weight." The campaign has the support of Harry M. Turrell, State director and James A. Green of the Bureau of Standard Weights and Measures, both of whom have conferred with local authorities during recent weeks.

Schimmel said the two State authorities told him they have received "nothing but excuses" from flour companies who have promised action to correct out-of-line package weights.

All inspectors in the crackdown said that the weight of the bags themselves is taken into consideration. A bag containing five pounds of flour weighs three-quarters of an ounce; a 10-pound bag weighs an ounce and a half and the container for 25 pounds of flour weighs four ounces, they said.

"Even after deducting the weight of the bag," Schimmel said, "most of the bags were still underweight."

Schimmel reported that he spotted a marking on a bag in one area store stating that there was "a metal scoop" inside the package. "This would increase the short-weight even more," he said.

Chemical Explosion Claims Lives Of Four Persons

BROOKHAVEN, N. Y., May 15 (AP)—A chemical explosion today injured four persons at the Brookhaven National Laboratory—one of the nation's principal atomic research centers.

One of the injured was reported in serious condition. Six other persons were exposed to corrosive acid vapors during rescue operations and required medical attention.

Report

The Atomic Energy Commission said no nuclear radiation was involved in any of the injuries.

Brookhaven is located in a remote section of eastern Long Island, about 75 miles from New York.

The explosion sent a puff of white smoke rising from a small-scale engineering test facility but was not felt generally through the vast acreage of the laboratory grounds.

New Bridge Dedicated In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, May 15 (AP)—The Walt Whitman Bridge, seventh longest suspension bridge in the world, was dedicated today.

The seven-lane 84-million span, which took eight years to plan and build, connects Gloucester City, N. J., and South Philadelphia over the Delaware River and is expected to carry 15 million vehicles its first year.

After the formal dedication ceremonies the 34,000-foot bridge, 30 stories high, was opened to pedestrian traffic. Tonight at midnight the first cars will begin the 6 1/2 mile run.

Brief handshakes by officials of the two connected states—the Delaware River Port Authority scoffed at a ribbon-cutting as old-fashioned—marked the bridge's opening.

Then pedestrians were permitted to roam across its width and length until 6 p. m. when guards made preparations for the start of vehicular traffic.

Gov. Robert Meyner headed the New Jersey delegation and, after shaking hands with Pennsylvania's top representative, Auditor General Charles C. Smith, he termed the bridge "a new and vital link in the national system of interstate and defense highways."

Interment was made in Stroudsburg cemetery. Pallbearers were Arthur E. Kitzman, Claude Hagerman, Evan S. Kintz, Russell Kern, Charles A. Keiper and Claude R. Setzer. Rev. P. N. Wohlsein officiated at services.

Wage Tax Proposal Passes

HARRISBURG, May 15 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to Gov. Leader tonight a House-approved proposal to exempt non-residents from Philadelphia's 1 1/2 per cent city wage tax.

The measure passed 27-18 after more than 30 minutes of debate. Philadelphia lawmakers argued against the bill. The levy has been in effect 18 years, at 1 1/2 per cent until early this year.

Princeton Seminary Choir

Princeton Seminary Choir To Appear At Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church On Sunday

PRINCETON Seminary Choir will present a service of sacred music in the First Presbyterian Church in Stroudsburg on Sunday at 11 a.m.

The entire service will be conducted by members of the group, a different individual taking each part of the order of worship. The 10 anthems included in the service will be sung a cappella and from memory. They will be selected from a repertoire of about 30 numbers, representative of the finest choral music by such composers as Palestrina, Lotti, Bach, Haydn, Mendelssohn, as well as contemporary composers. Members of this male chorus are all college graduates who are now preparing for full time Christian ministry. They are part of the Princeton Seminary student body of some 500 who come from all over the United States and many foreign countries.

Dr. David Hugh Jones, director of the choir, was a charter member of the faculty of Westminster College and head of the organ and composition departments for many years. Since 1934, he has been Director of Music at Princeton Seminary and became full-time Professor of Music in 1951. He is a composer of sacred music and editor of The Hymnbook, published by the Presbyterian and Reformed denominations.

Three Churches
For the past 18 years the Princeton Seminary Choir has sung in three churches every Sunday of the academic year, appearing in about 80 churches each season. For the past 11 summers it has made eight-week tours, singing on the average of twice a day in churches, hospitals, armed forces bases, schools, nontime clubs and youth conferences. On these tours it has visited every state in the Union, Canada, Alaska, Cuba, Mexico, Guatemala, Hawaii, Japan and Korea. A trip to Puerto Rico is planned for the summer of 1957. In all its touring the choir sets no fee, but depends upon the free-will offerings and hospitality of the congregations to defray its expenses.

Members of the choir will be entertained for dinner by the people of the First Presbyterian Church following the service and will then go on to Nazareth for an afternoon engagement in the Schoenck Moravian Church. The service this Sunday night will be at the First Presbyterian Church in Easton.

Dr. J. Christy Wilson, Dean of Field Work at Princeton Seminary, will be with the choir and will give a brief address during the service. Dr. Wilson was a missionary to Iran for 20 years, before coming to the Seminary. He is the author of several books in the Persian language and is an authority on Near Eastern subjects. Dr. Wilson began his ministry many years ago as pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Portland, Pa.

YMCA Day Camp Names Counselors

JUNIOR and senior counselors for the 1957 YMCA Day Camp were announced yesterday by William McDonnell, camp director. The junior counselors are Donald Shepard, Carl Yost, Jay Harmon and James Sisco.

Heading the senior group are James Groner, Edward Hermanns and Richard Dunning.

Groner, Yost and Hermanns served as counselors at previous day camps, McDonnell said, and Shepard received the "outstanding camper's" award at last year's Day Camp.

Dates

The camping season begins June 24 and extends to Aug. 2. There will be three two-week periods with the second starting July 8 and the third, July 22.

To date, McDonnell reported, 79 campers have been signed. Reservations will be limited to between 150 and 160 boys, he said.

The boys will be transported to and from camp at Saylor's Lake by a bus to be hired by the YMCA. This year, for the first time, free milk will be distributed daily to the campers.

Parents wishing to enroll their boys are requested to contact the YMCA in Stroudsburg.

DECIDING PP&L SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS—Independent scholarship selection committee faced difficult task in choosing the winners from nearly 300 applications in Pennsylvania Power & Light Company's fourth scholarship competition. The committee finally selected six top high school students from the utility's 10,000-square-mile service area. Left to right, Dr. Charles C. Tillingshast, principal-emeritus of Horace Mann School; Nichol H. Memory, director of admissions, Stevens Institute of Technology; and Dr. Robert W. Van Houten, president, Newark College of Engineering.

PP&L Announces Scholarship For Six High School Grads

SIX WINNERS OF 1957 scholarships in Pennsylvania Power & Light Company's program of educational assistance, now in its fourth year, were announced recently by Chas. E. Oakes, PP&L president.

The winners, and the schools they have chosen to attend are: Sally Ann Kehler of Shamokin, Susquehanna University; Lois Anne Mecum of Lancaster, Dickinson College; George W. Prutzman, Jr., of Palmerton, Franklin and Marshall College; William Radzelovage of Archbald, Lehigh University; James O. Snyder of Allentown, Lehigh University; Donald J. Veglia of Hazleton, Lehigh University.

The PP&L scholarship provides each scholarship winner with $500 per year toward tuition, with an additional $500 grant being made to the college or university the young person attends to be used "toward realization of the institution's educational objectives."

The independent scholarship committee that selected the winners is composed of Nichol H. Memory, director of admissions, Stevens Institute of Technology; Charles C. Tillingshast, principal-emeritus of Horace Mann School; and Dr. Robert W. Van Houten, president, Newark College of Engineering.

All scholarship winners will begin their studies this fall, making a total of 25 young people now receiving scholarships under this program. Nearly 300 young men and women from all parts of the PP&L service area competed for the six scholarships awarded.

Tickets
Frank E. Lanterman, chairman of the ticket committee, announced that tickets would be obtainable at the following business establishments: Kresge Drug Store, Don Heller's Men's Store, East Stroudsburg National Bank, Lanterman's Drug Store, and Lanterman Funeral Home in East Stroudsburg and the Rea and Derick Drug Store in Stroudsburg.

Date Set For Adjournment
HARRISBURG, May 15 (AP)—The Senate today fixed June 15 for final adjournment of the 1957 Legislature, an action that must still be approved by the House.

There wasn't a word of debate as the upper branch adopted the adjournment resolution sponsored by Senators Rowland B. Mahany, Republican floor leader, and James S. Berger (R-Potter).

But the action took the House by surprise. Rep. Albert W. Johnson, House GOP floor leader, said he hadn't been consulted on the move. "Actually, I think we can get out of here June 8 if the Senate passes the appropriations bills without too much delay," he told a newsman. "It is still a little too soon to fix a date finally."

PICTURE a typical American national holiday in a typical American small town some thirty years ago. The Stars and Stripes wave in the breeze and the home-town folks applaud and cheer proudly as the Boy Scout Drum Corps comes marching past.

The leader is a local lad named Fred Waring and the baton he so gingerly twirls is made from one of his mother's curtain rods topped with a glass door knob. Out of this drum corp's grew Fred's first entertainment group. It is made up of brother Tom Waring, Poley McClintock, Freddie Buck (who died in 1934) and Fred himself. The intrepid foursome called itself the "Banjazzatra" and that's how it all began.

From the very beginning Fred's mother, whose lovely contralto voice enriched her local church choir for 35 years, inspired the boys to sing as well as play. Her front parlor was rehearsal hall and the old frame house had many a quiver and quake as the boys beat out time on such songs as "The Old Maid Blues."

Soon they were playing for local dancing parties and talk of how the group would harmonize as a quartet over the two banjos, piano and drums spread their fame as novelty entertainers wider and wider.

In 1919 Fred created a flurry in Tyrone by calling up his hero, Paul Whiteman, long distance and asking him to listen to their "Banjazzatra." Whiteman, whose band was playing at the Palais Royal in New York, consented to lend an ear.

Fred and the boys travelled to New York on a day coach, wearing white duck trousers, shirts dyed a vivid blue by Tom Waring according to Fred's specifications and white bow ties. "King" Whiteman and his musicians laughed when they discovered why the boys were rendering "Somebody Stole My Girl" in six flats—a key which most musicians would rather avoid. Tom Waring, focal point for melody, only knew his way around by ear on the black keys of the piano.

But the four from Tyrone had hit upon an entertainment formula that showed promise and Whiteman encouraged them. The ensemble singing and clowning that was originated in Mother Waring's parlor kept the group busy from that time on. Through the years they have weathered all trends by clinging to their small-town concepts of fun and melody.

During the 'twenties' Waring's Pennsylvanians, billed as the "College Syncopationists" and pioneered in movie theaters. In April, 1928, Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians sailed for Paris to play an engagement at one of Europe's finest supper clubs, Des Ambassadeurs.

There they played the score written by Cole Porter, which included a song and dance act by a young man of the name of Clifton Webb. On opening night, George Gershwin played the piano for Fred's arrangement of "Rhapsody in Blue." The Pennsylvanians could have toured Europe, but a chance to be featured in the forth-coming musical revue "Hello, Yourself" lured the boys back home.

During the run of the show Fred and the boys made the first all musical motion picture called "Syncopation." Fred was also the first musician to record a rumba tune, putting on platters the songs brought back from Havana by Hoagy Carmichael.

It seems paradoxical that Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians came on the scene of the greatest successes rather late. Network executives advised Fred his production methods were too expensive. Finally, in 1933 a cigarette company was so intrigued that it took a chance. The rest is history.

The group will appear at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College on Wednesday, May 29. Proceeds will go to the YMCA Building Fund.

19 Counties To Take Part In Conference

NINETEEN COUNTIES in the Eastern Pennsylvania area will be represented today and tomorrow at the radiological defense instructors' course for Civil Defense workers.

The course is to be given at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. Monroe County Civil Defense Council is cooperating with the State C.D. Council in conducting the sessions.

Opening Session

The opening session today is scheduled for 10 a.m. Col. Edwin Feather, state training director, will preside at the general meeting.

Two classes of at least 30 members each will be instructed in radiological defense. Membership in the classes is limited to C.D. personnel with special training in science and allied fields and at least two years of college education.

Nurserymen See Value In Spraying

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—The American Assn. of Nurserymen said today the DDT spraying of millions of acres in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania to combat the gypsy moth "will be of great value to practically everyone."

The association deplored what it called "erroneous reports of damage that unduly alarmed innocent people," and said that "the hugely beneficial aspects of the spraying will soon begin to be apparent."

Control

The spraying program not only will control the gypsy moth, which in its caterpillar stage eats the foliage of most trees and shrubs, but also will control tent caterpillars, black flies, mosquitoes and canker worms, the association said.

Complaints were made in Rockland County recently that the spraying there had destroyed the strawberry crop and killed most of the bees, because the spraying was done while fruit trees were in blossom.

A suit has also been filed by a group of Long Island residents, claiming the spraying would ruin "organic farming" (without the use of insecticides) for many years to come and might be a health hazard to some residents.

Additional complaints have come from numerous other persons.

Fine Urges Pocono Mountain Businessmen To Recognize Potentials Available In Area

POCONO MANOR — Former Gov. John S. Fine has urged Pocono Mountain businessmen to recognize fully the great potentials of the area.

Fine made the remark Tuesday at a dinner meeting of the Mount Pocono Rotary Club. Representatives of the Tobyhanna, Pocono Summit and Stroudsburg Lions Club were among those in attendance.

New Highways, shorter working hours, longer vacations with pay would increase recreational activities, Fine said, as he urged against sectional bickering.

If the whole region does not go forward, he insisted, it will deteriorate and go backward.

The former governor stated the development of the Pocono region not only helps the local area but benefits the valleys of the coal region as well.

He said this was evidenced by the fact that a half dozen or more employees of Pocono Manor were recognized by him as being from the Wilkes-Barre area.

Fine further remarked that he believed the Poconos should have more roadside public recreation areas and public recreational parks.

He expressed the belief that the people of Pennsylvania and officials are beginning to realize the great value of recreational activities, not only for those people desiring vacations, but industries are very much interested in recreational facilities for their employees because they wish to have them happy and content in the area they work.

The state should realize that more money should be spent in publicizing the recreational areas of the state, he continued. It is a big business.

Fine also urged residents to do everything possible to have the Highway Department eliminate the blots and wreckage caused by the 1953 flood. He said there has been too much delay in repairing of the bridges and removing evidences of flood damage.

The time is not ready to free the toll turnpikes, he also remarked. It would take too much money from the state and Federal highway funds to retire the bonds at this time.

That money should be used for the construction of new and much needed highways, he added.

Fine further contended the Highway Department should take advantage of available Federal funds for new highway construction, but not use those funds for the retirement of turnpike bonds.

He noted that a great portion of the turnpike tolls are paid by out-of-state cars.

The former governor said the Pocono area, where he described as the greatest resort region in the state, has not only a wonderful package of goods to sell, but a package that is easy to sell, if everyone works together to try and do the job properly.

If he was in office now, Fine said, he would advocate larger appropriations for publicizing the recreational activities of Pennsylvania.

He said the Northeastern Extension of the Turnpike will make it easier for people from the Philadelphia area to come to the Poconos, and might induce some to come to this area rather than to the Jersey coast.

Fine also remarked that he thought it was a "fantastic dream" when he first heard about the Pocono Memorial Parkway.

But after consulting with prominent engineers, he said, he realized that the idea had merit and therefore appointed the Pennsylvania Parkway Commission as one of the last acts of his administration.

The present administration did not see fit to request confirmation, he added. But he expressed the belief it eventually will be considered again.

Just Between Us

—by Bobby Westbrook

When you start discussing social "trends" you have to be careful that you're not confusing personal with general trends. Just because you haven't played Postoffice in years doesn't mean that it isn't being played at children's parties anymore. And just because I haven't had much time for bridge in recent years doesn't mean that people aren't playing it.

But they definitely aren't having as many public card parties as they used to. I can remember when card parties were more common than bake sales are now as a means of raising funds. Now the announcement of the Ann Logan's two big summer card parties comes as the exception not the rule.

The big split between the Canasta-players and bridge players sort of started the popularity skidding. Bingo certainly didn't help. But what really killed bridge parties, in general, came when people were asked to bring their own cards, their own card tables and prizes for the individual tables. Seemed more sensible to stay home, I guess.

Which doesn't mean that a lot of people still aren't crazy about bridge. Ask Joyce Pedersen. At 2 o'clock in the morning, she still had a couple of guests insisting that they still hadn't played with three of the partners listed on their tally card, and she had to drive them out by force.

The partner I regretted missing was the guest of honor, Lee Ullrich, whose husband has a newspaper in Clearfield. Besides being a fascinating person in her own right I wanted to talk to her to find out how they were able to have a newspaper without a social page. It still seems incredible. Whatever do they do about activities, afternoon teas, announcements, brides, babies, birthdays? And we're only down to "B".

Supper Saturday Night

Feathered Friends Music Marks Closing Club Program

The nightingale dominated the program on "Feathered Friends in Music" at the Music Study Club this week, although there were also numbers of bluebirds, swans, wrens and unidentified birds. The closing program followed the theme of the year, "Music Inspired by Nature" and was arranged by Mrs. Numa Snyder.

Mrs. Robert Wolbert sang "Down in the Forest" by Landon Ronald and "The Nightingale and the Rose" by Rimsky-Korsakoff, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Quig. Mrs. Gerald Hinton's solos included "The Wren" by J. Benedict and "Bluebird" by Bainbridge Crist, with Mrs. Ralph Bender as her accompanist.

Instrumental numbers included piano solos by Mrs. Fred Quig "The Bird as a Prophet" by Robert Schuman; "Birding" by Edward Grieg; "If I Were a Bird" by A. Henselt, and "The Nightingale" by Leighton.

Mary Frances Frankfield presented the ballet dances from "The Swan Lake" by Tchaikovsky. The closing number was by the Music Club sextette, accompanied by Mrs. Ralph Bender Jr., pianist, and Robert Hawik and Numa Snyder, violinists. They sang "Fly, Singing Bird" by Elgar. The sex-

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Encountering Jess Pierson, the newly assigned manager of our Sears store, I learn that today—Thursday—is the start of the Sears' May Leadership Sale. Haven't been down to check on the values, but I am assured they have them, in all departments. . . . Speaking with Holt Wyckoff about a forthcoming radio program, I find the reference to two Bettys—Colvin and Bartholomew—confusing. Guess maybe I should call 'em "Bloode Betty" and "Brown Betty". That should do the trick. . . . With the coming of summer, our women customers are changing to lighter weight foundation garments, and garments that can be worn under bathing suits. Under a BATHING SUIT?—you ask. Why, of course. If some of those layers of fat weren't controlled even in beach and swimming attire, the sand and the SEE wouldn't be half so entrancing. . . . How do you like our new Jantzen display inside the front door? A revolving pedestal with two beautiful models in sleek Jantzen bathing suits, it's a real eye-catcher. As a matter of fact, it hadn't been more than fifteen minutes, when it caught the eye of a child who thought it would make a delightful merry go round. As he was climbing aboard, the mannequin took off—and so did her head. She's reassembled once again—but there's a neat little fence around the display. Of course, it's going to take a bit more than a wire fence to hold back the hordes of admiring males when they see THOSE suits on LAVE models at the pool. . . . Bill Wells, who is reading a newspaper at the next desk, tells me the Jantzen line is exceedingly glamorous this year, and prices range from 10.95 to 29.00. I remarked that I hadn't noticed the familiar figure of the Jantzen diving girl on this year's suits, but he tells me it is there as always. Not on the cottons, perhaps, but on the latex suits. We're glad she's still around—somehow summer wouldn't be summer if she weren't. . . . At a recent meeting of the Progressive Woman's Club of Saylorsburg, the newly elected president, Mrs. Grant Knowles, reviewed the state convention held in Philadelphia, and mentioned particularly an address by journalist Don Whitehead. Whitehead is author of "The FBI Story" which was published by Bennett Cerf's firm just prior to Christmas last year and which was much in demand for Christmas giving. As a matter of record, it was so much in demand that the publisher was unable to meet requests—but it's available once again, and we are stocking it here at Wyckoff's. One large local organization has already requested a review of it—but that looks to me like a frightfully ambitious project, and one I don't particularly relish. Price of the book is 4.95, but it's one you'll want to have permanently in your library. . . . Margaret Mood of our teens department, and Shorty Widmer of advertising, are working on a fascinating project at the moment. Shorty is engraving names on silver and gold loving cups for honeymooners, and Margaret is fastening greetings to the handle with pert bows. All of which has led to a discussion of places to go on a honeymoon. . . . Margaret's was spent in the world's most exciting city—Paris, France, and probably is the only Wyckoff employee to have that distinction. . . . Beatrix Bherman, the silhouette artist who made so many friends during her visit to Wyckoff's several years ago, sends greetings from West Palm Beach, via Lida Gregory. Beatrix has opened a studio there for both oil painting and silhouette cutting, and I am told she has had three very successful recent shows at leading Florida hotels. We think of her often, and are happy that her dreams have come true so miraculously. It couldn't have happened to a friendlier person! . . . One of the loveliest stoles I've ever seen was being sold by Bea Gorgy when I passed her counter the other day. It had a variety of pretty pastel colors, as well as a silver thread. Bea was also selling skirts from Mexico and an embroidered peasant blouse from Hungary. The scarfs from Italy that combine wool and nylon are particularly lovely too, and come in pink, white, black, or blue at 5.98. The saying "When in Rome do as the Romans do" should be reworded we think. With "Made in Italy" on everything including dishes, jewelry, fabrics, and furniture, we'd better say, "When in America do as the Italians do". . . . Lunch time. Where's the nearest pizza parlor?

Warriors Crush Bloomsburg STC In Season Track Finale

Three Double Winners Account For Triumph

THE EAST Stroudsburg State Teachers College track team trounced Bloomsburg STC into the cinders yesterday by a count of 88½ to 37½.

This was the finale for the Warriors, who annexed their fourth win in five dual meets this season.

It was a surprisingly strong showing against the Bloomsburg team which finished but one point behind them in a recent state meet. Bloomsburg had come into the meet with an identical three-win one-loss record possessed by the local cindermen.

A school record was established by East Stroudsburg's Ed Adams in the shotput. He heaved the 16-lb. ball 43 feet and three inches to eclipse a mark of 27 years' standing. The former holder was Al Weeks.

In taking first place in 12 of the 14 events—all six in the field matches and six of eight on the cinders—the Warriors had three double winners. Larry Morgan scored in the 100- and 220-yard dashes while Carl Weigner copped the one- and two-mile runs. Paul Keirstead showed tremendous versatility in winning the pole-vault and broad-jump.

Jack Sellers broke the tape in the 440 after finishing second to Morgan in the 220. Andy Gall

Both wins for Bloomsburg were scored by Charles Loughery, who hurled his way in front in the 220-yard low hurdles and the 120-yard high.

For the cindermen to wind up their season at four and one, they had to add Bloomsburg to their list of victims which included N. Y. Community College, Brooklyn (N.Y.), Polytechnic Institute, and Montclair (N.J.) State Teachers. They did.

Pikes Peak Victor Killed In Test Run

INDIANAPOLIS, May 15 (P)—Keith Andrews, 26, winner of the 1954 Pike's Peak hill climb, was killed today in a test run in the car that was to be driven in the 500-mile race by 1956 world champion Giuseppe Farina.

Andrews, a Colorado Springs, Colo., garage owner and driver on dirt and midget tracks since 1947, lost control of Farina's new Kurtis-Kraft coming out of the north-west turn at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Andrews had been averaging about 136 m.p.h. around the 2½-mile brick-and-asphalt track when the car slid 300 feet on the front straightaway. He righted the car, but it went into a 450-foot skid, the tail smashing into a new concrete retaining wall along the infield.

The Colorado driver, who started in the 1955 and 1956 Memorial Day races here, was crushed to death between the car's cowl and the fuel tank. There was no fire.

It was the 13th accident since the track was opened for practice May 1. Time trials start Saturday.

Farina, who comes from Turin, Italy, had been having trouble handling the new lightweight car. He went into long skids last Thursday and last Sunday, but the car didn't hit anything, and he was not hurt.

It was considered highly unlikely that the badly damaged car could be repaired to get into the race.

Doherty Quits Penn Post

PHILADELPHIA, May 15 (P)—Ken Doherty resigned today as head coach of the University of Pennsylvania track team to devote full time to planning and running the annual Penn Relays.

Penn Athletic Director Jerry Ford said that Richmond "Boo" Morcom, coach of the Red and Blue freshman track team since 1949, will succeed Doherty as varsity mentor on July 1. However, Doherty will continue in track as an associate of Morcom.

Ford said Doherty "feels that the Penn Relays can be exploited as a track and field event of international importance to the city and to the university."

Doherty came to Penn in 1918 from Michigan.

Gartner Brothers Place One-Two In PIAA Golf

THE GARTNER brothers of East Stroudsburg High School holed out as first and second in the PIAA Golf Tourney held here yesterday.

It took an extra three holes for Gerhart Gartner to eliminate his younger brother Roland. On the previous hole, Larry Carl of Emmaus High was stopped, having to content himself with third place. The trio had finished the regulation 18 holes with totals of 85.

One stroke behind the pace-setters was William Bradford, Bethlehem High's leader. Jerry Lambert of Stroudsburg tallied 88 for fifth, while Thomas Marsh, also of Stroudsburg High, needed an extra hole to clinch sixth place over Glen Rosetti. Marsh holed out at 89.

The six winners will represent the area in the State-wide tournament to be held at College Park on the 24th and 25th of the month. Prior to yesterday's tourney, no local boy had ever won. For quite a while, it seemed as if destiny was to repeat itself, as Carl took an early lead. However, the Gartner boys closed in on the Emmaus student, and the triumvirate was knotted at 85 after 18 holes.

Carl stayed with the Gartner for two more holes, but their consistently fine play eventually forced him out. Then age prevailed, and young Gartner, a ninth grader, will have to await the passing of a year.

Rosetti matched Marsh stroke for stroke forcing the Stroudsburger into an extra hole—which was all he needed.

The tournament, which was held at the beautiful Glenbrook Country Club, attracted 32 entrants. The six winners will have all expenses paid for the state championships by the PIAA, District 11, committee.

Patterson To Defend Title For New York Promoter

NEW YORK, May 15 (P)—Floyd Patterson's manager said today the world heavyweight boxing champion would defend his title for the first time for promoter Emil Lence probably a New York ball park "sometime in July."

Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, announced he had selected Lence as his "New York area" promoter at a luncheon and news conference during which he gave a running account of his feud, leading to an open break with the International Boxing Club.

Lence, who promoted weekly television shows at the Eastern Parkway Arena in Brooklyn for several seasons, was not present at the conference. Neither was Patterson who was reported training at Greenwood Lake, N. Y.

Les Arries, a television consultant who was connected with Lence's operations at Eastern Parkway, said he had a date tomorrow for a conference with Columbia Broadcasting System officials about making an offer to televise the bout. Arries said the asking price was $200,000. In the absence of Lence, who gave Patterson his first main events shortly after he turned pro, D'Amato refused to list any possible opponents.

"That's up to the promoter," he said. "You can start with the No. 1 contender and work right down the list. We'll fight any of them. If any of them aren't available, they will forfeit their right."

"Lence has the authority to look for opponents for Floyd Patterson's first defense. He will be the one to decide the terms. When that defense is over, we will go to other independent promoters."

The No. 1 contender in both the National Boxing Assn. and Ring Magazine ratings, is Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson, who lost a split decision to Patterson last June before Floyd won the title.

Thomas and other Pirates were not available for comment. The club's last game at Chicago postponed by cold weather, left for Milwaukee to open a three-game series tomorrow.

Arch Rivals To Replay Scoreless Tie

A SEVEN inning scoreless tie yesterday between Twin City Television and Nebels Market will be replayed tonight at the Stroudsburg Playground.

The contest featured brilliant pitching by both John Heckman of Nebels and the Twin City's Stan Tehorz.

This encounter in the Monroe County Softball League was marked by extremely fine fielding as well as the remarkable pitching.

There were only two threats in this pitchers' duel. In the second inning, Twin City's Dye Lessig reached third but was stranded; the Nebels cooled Ike Hiline on the hot corner in the sixth inning.

ESSTC Women Racqueteers Thrash Drexel

THE EAST Stroudsburg State Teachers College women's tennis team evened its slate at two-up and two-down by thrashing their Drexel counterparts 4-1.

It was only in the first slot that the Teachers experienced defeat, as Drexel's Anne Morrison defeated Joyce Fuhrman 9-7, 6-0. From that point, Drexel had scored its last win, as Jane Dunn and Pat Zerbe, flashing at two and three respectively, easily copped their matches. Miss Dunn scored 6-3, 6-1, while Miss Zerbe had even less difficulty in winning 6-1, 6-2.

Having assumed a 2-1 lead at the end of the singles portion of the meet, the girls from East Stroudsburg really poured the ball over the net in the doubles. At the first position Nancy Diviny and Diana Weaver gave up one game in walloping Janet Hood and Felicia John 6-0, 6-1, while the second-slaters Doris Herrmann and Polly Hessler were not even this generous. They won both sets at love.

The Teachers wind up their current campaign against Temple here Friday.

Reds Win For Tie

CINCINNATI, May 15 (P)—Brooks Lawrence allowed only five hits and fanned 11 tonight as the Cincinnati Redlegs moved back into a tie with Milwaukee for first place in the National League with a 7-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phils. It was Lawrence's fourth victory of the season.

Reds Cross Bridges

CINCINNATI, May 15 (P)—The Cincinnati Redlegs got down to the 25-player limit tonight as they took veteran utility infielder Rocky Bridges off their active list and asked waivers on him.

Boyd Gains Decision

CHICAGO, May 15 (P)—Octopus-like Bobby Boyd of Chicago, trying to regain high ranking in the middleweight bracket, tonight won a split 10-round decision over shiftily light-punching Willie Vaughn of Los Angeles.

Spooner Sold

BROOKLYN, May 15 (P)—Karl Spooner, 25-year-old Brooklyn left handed pitcher who has been sidelined by shoulder trouble for two years, today was sold to Macon of the South Atlantic League, a Dodger farm club.

Kulps Blast Tru-Matic By 18-10

THE PITCHERS came off second best yesterday when Kulps blasted high-scoring Tru-Matic by an 18-10 count.

A total of 31 hits accompanied the 28 runs as the pitchers wished that they hadn't bothered.

Kulps blasted seven across in the first and added five more in the second to virtually clinch the game when Tru-Matic could score but two in the same time. Tru-Matic counted seven times in the sixth and seventh, but it fell well short of Kulps two-inning tally, notwithstanding the insurance runs which they converted in the third and sixth innings.

Charlie Stump and Gordon Brinks of Kulps crashed in with a home-run apiece in the first inning in the Industrial Softball League encounter.

Indians Win In 16th

BALTIMORE, May 15 (P)—Cleveland scored three runs in the 16th inning of a thriller tonight, defeating Baltimore 11-8 in a 4½-hour marathon which saw 11 pitchers in the game.

Cards Cop

ST. LOUIS, May 15 (P)—Hal Smith singled home Del Ennis from second base in the 14th inning tonight, lifting the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-5 victory over the New York Giants, who couldn't make a 4-0 first inning lead stand up.

Yanks Whip Kansas City Cousins

NEW YORK, May 15 (U-P)—A couple of walks and some inept fielding in the first inning spoiled a good pitching performance by Ned Garver today and gave the Yankees a 3-0 victory over the Kansas City Athletics behind the five-hit pitching of Tom Stoddard.

Stoddard, who has pitched two shutouts and hasn't allowed an earned run in his last three games, was in command all the way. Today's performance brought his earned run average down to 1.15.

Unearned Runs
Two of the Yankee runs were unearned, due to a throwing error by Joe DeMaestri, the A's shortstop. His high toss put Joe Collins on first. Then Garver walked Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra, filling the bases. Bill Skowron drove in two runs with a hit through short that looked like a routine single but went for a double when the A's left second base uncovered. Both DeMaestri and Hector Lopez went after the slow moving ball back on the grass and Milt Graff went over to cover third.

An intentional pass to Enos Slaughter filled the bases again and Bob Richardson's infield single brought Berra home with the third run.

Doctors' Cure For Klu: Make Like Burlesque!

CINCINNATI, May 15 (U-P)—Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati Redlegs' big first baseman, was told today to make like a "burlesque dancer" to rid himself of his miseries.

He was released from Lahey Clinic in Boston and told by Dr. James L. Poppen to forget about an operation at this time for a slipped disc, and to "get in shape and play ball."

Big Klu, advised a week ago by a team of nine specialists that an operation was necessary, went to Boston on Monday. Dr. Poppen said in releasing Kluszewski that he thought certain exercises would be helpful, but did not close the door to an eventual operation.

It was then, Klu told reporters, that the doctor explained the calculus he wanted him to do to strengthen the gluteal muscles of his backside.

"He told me to do bumps and grinds like a 'burlesque dancer,'" Klu said with a big grin.

The doctor also told him to do a lot of swimming, using the crawl stroke.

The all-time home-run king of the Redlegs, who currently are fighting for the National League lead, will not get back into the line-up, however, before June 10.

Red Sox Blast Tiger Pitching For 16 Hits

BOSTON, May 15 (U-P)—The Boston Red Sox unleashed their heaviest barrage of the season by beating five Detroit pitchers for 16 hits and an 11-3 victory today in a three hour and 10 minute slugfest.

Veteran first baseman Mickey Vernon drove in four runs with a double and a single while Jackie Jensen sent three more across the plate with a pair of doubles and a single.

The Tigers, who had defeated the Red Sox three straight times, blasted 14 hits off starter Dean Stone and relief hurler Bob Chalkles and George Susce, but left 11 runners stranded.

Piersall
Boston's Jimmy Piersall had three singles, while Ted Lepcio, Frank Malone and Sammy White each collected a pair of safeties as the Red Sox snapped out of a hitting slump and ended a three-game losing streak.

Billy Klaus was the only Boston starter except for Stone who failed to hit safely at least once. Ted Williams, had gone hitless in 11 straight trips to the plate, snapped out of the slump by singling in the fifth.

Ray Boone was the big gun for Detroit with three hits, including his second homer of the year in the first with the bases empty. Reno Bertoia and Bill Tuttle each had two hits.

Traditional Power

UNIVERSITY PARK — Penn State, a traditional baseball power, competed in the NCAA, District Two, play-offs five times since 1949.

Zimmer 10th Inning Homer Beats Burdette And Braves

MILWAUKEE, May 15 (U-P)—Don Zimmer hit the first ball pitched by Lew Burdette in the 10th inning today into the left field stands to provide the Brooklyn Dodgers with a 3-2 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

Through the top of the sixth, starters Don Drysdale and Gene Conley were matching double shutout performances, each giving up one hit over that distance. In the Braves' half of the inning, however, the 20-year old Brooklyn righthander trying for his third victory of the season without a defeat got himself into trouble by walking first Danny O'Connell, then Ed Mathews.

Torre Scores Two
Then Frank Torre, who had gone in for Joe Adcock in the top of the inning to bring more left-handed power to the plate for Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney worked the count to 3 and 2, and whaled a double over Sandy Amoros' head to the centerfield fence.

Mother's Day Observed At Church Service

BARTONSVILLE — Mother's Day was observed here at St. John's Lutheran Church with special vesper services last Sunday night, Rev. Robert Zuch spoke on the subject "Christian Motherhood."

Featured on the program of special music were Mrs. Robert L. Wolbert, soprano; Robert L. Wolbert, tenor; and Vernon C. Imbt, organist. Mrs. Wolbert sang a solo, "Love Never Faleth," Wolbert sang "No Greater Love" and they were heard in a duet "Love Divine, All Love Excelling." Imbt played several organ selections including "Berceuse" and "Songs My Mother Taught Me" and played the organ accompaniment for the numbers sung by Mr. and Mrs. Wolbert.

Oldest

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Emma Metzgar, of Arlington Heights, who was the oldest mother present. Mrs. Harry Zuch, mother of Pastor Zuch, received the award for coming the longest distance to attend the service, 108 miles. Mrs. Zuch lives in Marietta. Others receiving prizes were Mrs. Jack Luckey, the youngest mother present; Mrs. Archie Ace and Mrs. Wolbert, the mother who had the most children, nine; Mrs. Fred Fralley, the youngest grandmother; Mrs. Claude Cyphers, the mother with the most children present.

Mrs. Mildred Cyphers was organist for the service. Ushers were Ronald Swink and Carl Cyphers.

Altar flowers and bulletins were presented by the Cyphers family in memory of their parents, Jesse and Alta Cyphers.

The service was sponsored by the Crusader Class of the Sunday School.

Riding Club To Feature Outing

THE HORSEBACK Riding Club will meet this Sunday at Eaglenest Camp on Route 46, Delaware, N. J. It will start at 10:30 a.m. Anyone having horses they wish to take are asked to get in touch with Howard Lininger.

A previous meeting was held earlier this month, when they nominated Boyd Weiss, Howard Lininger and Tex Ryan as officers.

Colors

The club has selected colors for a flag and Mrs. Beatrice Fairfield is going to make the flag.

The club has been riding different trails on weekends.

Legislation For Faculty

HARRISBURG, May 15 (AP)—Faculty members and department heads of Pennsylvania's 14 state teachers' colleges would be given minimum pay rises up to $500 a year under a bill given Senate committee approval today.

Committee approval also was given a measure that would set a $75 a semester fee which could be charged each student attending the colleges. The proposal stipulates the money could be used in salary payments to help provide for the proposed pay increases.
